Take $507 Off Your Bathroom Remodeling Project!

Has Your Bathroom Seen Better Times?

Is your bathtub old and hard to clean? Is it that gold color so popular in the '70s that now just looks dated? What about the walls surrounding your tub and shower? Are you tired of cleaning the grout lines? We can help eliminate these problems with a new bathtub liner - now at $507 off our regular price! And we're throwing in a free 24" grab bar!

Update Your Bathroom in Just One Day

Integrity Home Pro can transform your bathroom in just one day by installing a beautiful acrylic bathtub liner over your existing tub! We wrap and cover the walls surrounding your shower and tub with sleek acrylic wall panels in your choice of colors, styles and patterns. You can have surrounds with added soap dishes, shampoo caddies, grab bars and seats.

The liners' high-gloss finish will not crack, chip or peel and are non-porous and scratch resistant. Our bathtub liners also help prevent water leakage, which can help stop any mildew problems.

Walk-in tub

In addition to our bathtub liners, our current $507 off special also applies to installation of walk-in bathtubs. Many of us take bathing for granted, but it can be a tremendous challenge for those in wheelchairs or otherwise restricted in movement. Getting in and out of conventional bathtubs can be dangerous to those with limited mobility. The elderly and disabled may have to contend with high-step thresholds, slippery surfaces and hard to reach grab bars while attempting to bath in their home's bathtub.

Protect Your Home From Winter Weather Hazards

Severe cold weather and heavy snow not only push up your home's energy bills, but below-freezing temperatures during the winter can also lead to potential hazards like chimney and furnace fires, burst pipes, power outages and ice dams. A few precautions can help protect you from serious losses and disruptions this season.

House Fires

While fire presents a year-round risk, the increased use of fireplaces, boilers and furnaces during cold months causes fires to occur more frequently during the winter. Annual inspections by certified specialists of your chimney and heating systems can reduce potential fire hazards.

Indoor Floods

While home fires make the most headlines, water damage is actually more common and often just as severe. Be sure to insulate exposed pipes in your home to avoid them freezing and bursting.

If you leave your home for even a few days, always leave the heat on and set the thermostat to at least 55 degrees. Don't let high fuel prices tempt you to set your heat even lower. Pipes can reach temperatures much lower than the setting on your thermostat. Also, have someone check on your home when you are gone.

Ice Dams

An ice dam is a build-up of ice that can form at the edge of your roof when snow melts but is blocked from draining. The result of this water backup can soak through your roof and cause damage to ceilings, walls and more. The most common causes of ice dams are clogged gutters and insufficient insulation, both of which are easy to remedy.

Consider Buying a Back-Up Generator

Power outages can cause many problems in your home, from food spoilage to basement flooding. Install back-up generators to power all of your home's critical systems including sump pumps, security and fire alarms and heating systems.

Let the Sunshine In

Brighten Your Foyer

Create a bright and welcoming entryway by replacing your old front door with a decorative glass-insert entry door. With styles ranging from clean, spare lines to intricate scrollwork, glass doors bring sparkling light into the foyer, while adding elegance to the exterior of your home.

Energy Efficient

Although you may worry that a glass door would not keep out the cold winter weather, the glass areas on these doors are actually insulated by sandwiching the designer glass between two layers of tempered glass.

Add Sidelites

You can upgrade your entry with a single glass entry door, or install a complete entry system, with sidelites and transoms. Glass options in our entry door systems include decorative, obscure or clear glass with a variety of grid options. We offer oil-rubbed bronze, satin nickel or bright brass finished hardware and an array of security options.
